JOURNALISM

Question 1 information

Profile of the town where you work:

You are a reporter covering Bradfield, a town in the North of England with a population of around 140,000. The town is home to the Elitebus manufacturing company, which has been building luxury coaches since the 1940s. It is the biggest employer in the town with 850 people on the payroll.

Information:

Media release: Immediate

From: Mrs Angela Stokes, managing director, Elitebus

Elitebus has been the proud manufacturer of luxury coaches for nearly 80 years. In that time we have been proud to supply coaches that have carried people all over these islands and overseas.

Unfortunately, recent changes in the market place have started to impact on our business.

The Covid pandemic saw many coach firms go out of business and the rise in fuel costs has also seen coach operators cutting costs and reducing their fleets.

All of this has meant a reduction in orders for our coaches and in the last financial year we have seen sales drop by 35 per cent and the company make a loss of £2.5m.

It is with regret that I must announce that Elitebus will be seeking to cut its workforce because of this drop in business and we will be looking to shed 250 jobs. We will be seeking volunteers to leave the company but we cannot at this stage rule out compulsory redundancies. The relevant trade unions have been informed.

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir or Madam,

The management team at Elitebus should hang their heads in shame over the decision to make 250 workers redundant.

It has been clear for some time that Elitebus operations needed modernizing as there coach range has barely changed since the 1990s and what they have to offer looks dated in comparison to some of the other coaches on the market.

Their decision five years ago to turn down a significant cash injection from an American investor who we are told was willing to invest £50m into the Bradfield site is starting to look like a serious own goal.

The slimming down of the workforce will, I believe, have a severe impact on the fortunes of our town. Food shops and stores near the factory will see a downturn in takings suppliers of parts and materials will suffer too and there is a severe lack of alternative work in the area suggesting some people will have to move elsewhere to find work.

The sad fact is that a fine firm has fallen behind the times and now hundreds of skilled workers are going to pay a heavy price for their lack of foresight.
